More CSS Function

Topics

- Introduction to CSS function
- attr()
- calc()
- max()
- min()
- var()

PW SKILLS

Introduction to CSS function

CSS functions are statements that invoke special data processing or calculations to return a CSS value for a CSS property.

attr() function

A function that is used to retrieve the value of an attribute from an HTML element and use it as a property value within the CSS styling.

calc() function

call() CSS function is a function that You can utilize to execute calculations while defining values for CSS properties.

max() function

The max() function in CSS is a function that can be used to set the largest value from a list of comma-separated expressions as the value of a CSS property value

min() function

The min() function in CSS is a function that can be used to set the smallest value from a list of comma-separated expressions as the value of a CSS property value.

var() function

The var() function in CSS is a function that is used to define and use custom CSS variables, also known as CSS custom properties,